LOCUST GROVE, Ga. (MyFOX Atlanta) - "Evidence" the injured zebra found along Interstate 75 made his public debut Saturday afternoon in Locust Grove.

A crowd gathered at the Noah's Ark Animal Rescue Center to see the zebra step into the public habitat for the first time.

The 5-month-old zebra was found along the interstate in Butts County last April.

Rescuers said they think Evidence fell off a truck and was hit by another vehicle.

Evidence had surgery to repair his injuries and spent several months in recovery. Now the zebra is healthy and happy and shares a habitat home with a miniature horse named Grace.

"Evidence" the injured zebra found along Interstate 75 made his public debut Saturday, July 12, 2008 in Locust Grove.
